

Read The Picture Story

Once there was a man who wanted to make  (money) more than anything else. He would find old  (bicycles) or broken  (watches) and clean them. He told his customers they were new. When the people took the  and  home, they discovered that they did not work at all.

On Yom Kippur, the man went to the  (synagogue) and opened the prayer  (book). He tried to say "I'm sorry" to God, but every time he opened his  (mouth), the words stuck in his throat. Then the man heard a voice inside his head. "You did not cheat Me," the voice said. "You cheated the  (boy) sitting behind you. You cheated the  (girl) standing next to the door. And you cheated yourself. You must tell these people you are sorry before you ask Me for forgiveness."

The man looked around. He saw the  and the . He also saw two  (men) who had bought broken . The man went to each person and told them he was sorry. He promised to return their  and to fix their broken  and . Then, once again he opened the prayer —and this time the words came easily from his , for he meant every word he said.
